Give Me The Strength

I can't catch my breath right now
I don't believe that this is happening to me
Only yesterday my life made so much sense
Now I struggle to maintain my sanity

Give me the strength I need to be so tough
To grit my teeth and rise above
To see beyond the pain I feel inside
And to know that love surrounds me

Wish there was something I could do
Must be some way to ease the pain we're going through
I'm so afraid of what the future holds for us
So I search my soul for something I can trust
So I search my soul for something I can trust

Give me the strength I need to lift you up
To encourage you when times get rough
To be your hope and keep your spirits high
To take away your sadness

And if the day should come when we must say goodbye
To know that you are always by my side

Give me the strength I need to let you go
To heal in time to help me grow
To appreciate the blessings in my life
To revel in the mystery
To feel your presence here with me
To look up on the moments that we shared
And to know your love surrounds me
I know your love surrounds me

©2005 Todd Herzog (VoxArt Music, ASCAP)